Subject: a thought before our call tonight (2 sentences!)

Just fyi, thought you might be interested in the opening line of a pamphlet that the British policy planning office put out on "Better International Policy." The Introduction, written by the Permanent Under-Secretary of States, opens: "The FCO is at the centre of policy making on international issues in Whitehall. We are the experts in government at analyzing and influencing what is happening overseas and in turning this into clear and well-judged policy advice for Ministers."
