Agree. I love the AFT/NEA idea. Have you raised it with them? If they are interested I'd love to explore a global partnership with them since there are a number of countries interested in expanding our programs and the existing structures --- peace corp, fulbright, etc just aren't organized to handle something like this.

See you when I get back.

This is a rolling challenge that will, unfortunately, go on for weeks of disclosure and defense. So, our prep is crucial but we will have to adjust as it goes. I think your trip to Malaysia is crucial and their desire for English teachers could be filled thru a partnership w the retirees of the AFT and NEA. I'd like to develop that since both of them have $ to help pay for it. We should discuss when you have a chance to assess the situation. Travel safe.

I have been monitoring the wikipedia situation and working with the R team to try and be as prepared as we can.

I am heading to Indonesia on Monday for the opening of the new American Center and then to Malaysia where, among other things, I plan to work with Paul Jones on the English language initiative.

I will be traveling all day Monday so unfortunately out of touch for about 18 hours. I will be in contact with my office as soon as I land and can always cut the trip short if necessary, although, under the circumstances I think it is important to keep to our schedules.

As we have discussed, one of the main drivers of our PD strategy is to ensure we have strong relations in all sectors to help us weather the inevitable storms in our relationships and at this point it looks like we have a hurricane on the horizon.

Take care and look forward to seeing you when we both get back.
