Making the case that the civilian increase to complement the military surge will lead us to roughly [] civilians over the next year will make the case for our proposed funding level on the personnel side.

B5

In terms of foreign assistance our case should be simple: we need the resources to mount a civilian program in each district and village where the civ-mil plan calls for us to move together. We should say that like DoD we are working with OMB to make sure the civilian surge is fully resourced.

Is there a way to describe the significant civilian surge underway this year and the additional positions we expect to fill while signalling that given the POTUS decision to add [] troops, we will have to keep up and add even more, thereby signalling our need for all requested approps requests? We should provide Karl w the specific points to help make the case that supports our passback appeal.

Rich and I and his team did prep sessions with Karl yesterday and today. They were very productive and I will let Rich chime in here, but set the stage for effective testimony this week. We made sure that Karl and General McCrystal were familiar with the effective formulations that you and Secretary Gates worked out through the week and in the Sunday shows you taped yesterday.
