B6

As I delve in to the euro issue (including a terrific conversation with Liaquat this morning), I’ve had quite a few people, including Europeans, assert that HFC has more clout on European policy, including their economic policy, than Geithner. He’s seen as underwhelming and a spent force, while she’s seen as have huge political clout now and lot more potentially in the future. Sensitive, of course, but for what it’s worth.
