Subject: Electric Burma Concert with Aung San Suu Kyi

Robert/Cheryl,

I'd appreciate it, if you would let HRC know that she will soon be receiving an invitation from [] Julie Yannatta to attend the Electric Burma concert in Dublin on June 18 in honor of Aung San Suu Kyi.

Julie is executive producer of this concert which will benefit Burma.

ASSK is traveling in June outside of Burma for the first time in 25 years, first to Oslo to receive her Nobel Peace Prize awarded in absentia in 1991, and the next day to Dublin for the concert in her honor, the first such she has ever attended. Bono will head line with a variety of other artists. The event will be held in the elegant 2000 capacity Bord Gais Energy Theater designed by architect Daniel Libeskind.

Julie and the organizers hope that Hillary's schedule might allow her to attend. Hillary has met Julie on a number of occasions, and when Hillary as First Lady made her official visit to Finland when I served as US ambassador, Julie was present at Hillary's meeting with the leading women of Finland including the Minister of Defense, the head of the Central Bank and the Foreign Minister. Julie was in the group photo taken in front of my residence. Earlier this year, Julie co-produced an album of Bob Dylan songs performed by 80 artists, "Chimes of Freedom", to benefit and celebrate the 50th anniversary of Amnesty International. The year before she produced, "Instant Karma Darfur", a collection of John Lennon songs to benefit Amnesty.

Needless to say, []

Thanks,
Derek
