

RELEASE IN FULL

From: H <hrod17@clintonemail.com>
Sent: Saturday, January 29, 2011 9:41 PM
To: 'verveerms@state.gov'
Subject: Re: Your husband

Thx for the firsthand report--I had heard he was unusually good in Davos. Must be the mountain air! I need some for sure.

----- Original Message -----

From: Verveer, Melanne S <VerveerMS@state.gov>
To: H
Sent: Thu Jan 27 19:06:15 2011
Subject: Fw: Your husband

Resending

----- Original Message -----

From: Verveer, Melanne S
To: 'hdr22@clintonemail' <hdr22@clintonemail>
Sent: Thu Jan 27 19:03:46 2011
Subject: Your husband

Your husband's remarks in answer to questions from Schwab here in Davos today were exceptional in every way. He was reflective, expansive, knowledgeable, funny --and he looked terrific. He just gets better and better. Everyone seemed to be talking about him at once tonight.

At the end of a discourse that covered Israel and Palestine, the rioting in arab states, the off-year election, optimism about america, the deficit and the economy, health care, trade, etc., he was asked what his hopes were for the next 10 years. He said, "to be alive, to be a grandfather and to have a happy wife ---and that means that she becomes a grandmother which she cares about more than anything! To be grateful for each day and make a difference." He then said that he hoped to live to see the day when countries came together and make consistently good decisions. This came after a discussion on the Hubble Telescope and semiconductor and what it's going to tell us about our remarkable world. He ended by saying "This is an exciting time to be alive!"

Everywhere I go people want to tell me what a great job you're doing from Republicans to foreigners to your loyal followers. The pressures have got to be even greater, however, with what's happening in the Arab world. I feel like you predicted it in your Doha remarks.

There are many companies who want to partner with us and I'm eager to raise more money for our Fund. I did a press conference in Istanbul with our Avon and other Secretary's Fund grantees and could see again what a difference it makes. It's also good PD. The Istanbul conference was a big successes. Thank you for doing the video.

Sincerely,
Your reporter