

RELEASE IN PART B6
-----------------------

---

From: Sullivan, Jacob J <SullivanJJ@state.gov>
Sent: Saturday, January 22, 2011 2:52 PM
To: H
Subject: Fw: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

Fyi

----- Original Message -----

From: Ruggiero, Frank J
To: Sullivan, Jacob J
Sent: Sat Jan 22 14:47:00 2011
Subject: Fw: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

Not to be outdone by its neighbor to the west... Turns out only a reshuffle of cabinet, not a dissolution.

Funny story: friend of mine in Pakistan said best tweet going around follows - to save energy, the government has turned out the light at the end of the tunnel.

----- Original Message -----

From: Nasr, S Vali R
To: Nepal, Rohit S; Lenderking, Timothy A; Feldman, Daniel F; Engelken, Stephen C
Cc: Ruggiero, Frank J; Singh, Vikram J; Spykerman, John D; Pratt, Jonathan G
Sent: Sat Jan 22 14:29:08 2011
Subject: Re: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

It makes sense since Zardari wants to avoid having to deal with a vote in parliament on a new government. But this will not address Nawaz's demand.

Vali Nasr

----- Original Message -----

From: Nepal, Rohit S
To: Lenderking, Timothy A; Feldman, Daniel F; Nasr, S Vali R; Engelken, Stephen C
Cc: Ruggiero, Frank J; Singh, Vikram J; Spykerman, John D; Pratt, Jonathan G
Sent: Sat Jan 22 14:12:34 2011
Subject: Re: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

It seems to be a reshuffle rather than dissolution. A bit more detail courtesy of PolCouns Jonathan Pratt (copied):

Hafez Shaikh is being quoted on Express 24 as saying that a reshuffle was agreed to expand the coalition. They are going to bring in MQM and JUI-F, per Shaikh. So it's part of a deal to bring their partners back in and presumably others, if they intend to expand the coalition.

There is nothing about dissolving the cabinet and a PPP contact just told me he doubts it. Reshuffle seems to be in the cards, but as part of the ongoing negotiations.

Rohit Nepal

Pakistan Desk
(202) 647-6728

B6

----- Original Message -----

From: Lenderking, Timothy A
To: Feldman, Daniel F; Nasr, S Vali R; Engelken, Stephen C
Cc: Ruggiero, Frank J; Singh, Vikram J; Nepal, Rohit S; Spykerman, John D
Sent: Sat Jan 22 12:07:08 2011
Subject: Re: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

Steve, what are you hearing?

Ro, John, be prepared to mobilize with Ops, memo to S, etc.

----- Original Message -----

From: Feldman, Daniel F
To: Nasr, S Vali R
Cc: Ruggiero, Frank J; Singh, Vikram J; Lenderking, Timothy A
Sent: Sat Jan 22 11:49:56 2011
Subject: RE: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

Thx -- just keep us informed as you hear anything.

-----Original Message-----

From: Nasr, S Vali R
Sent: Saturday, January 22, 2011 11:48 AM
To: Feldman, Daniel F
Subject: Re: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

Some ministers will be same. This was a key demand of Nawaz, smaller cabinet and more competent. It could be good news for the country. No word yet on timing of reshuffle.

Vali Nasr

----- Original Message -----

From: Feldman, Daniel F
To: Nasr, S Vali R
Sent: Sat Jan 22 11:31:14 2011
Subject: RE: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

What's your assessment of that? Positive news, or too soon to tell, depending on whom will be appointed to key ministries like Foreign and Finance?

-----Original Message-----

From: Nasr, S Vali R
Sent: Saturday, January 22, 2011 11:30 AM
To: SSRAP_Expanded
Subject: Pak Cabinet to be dissolved

News from Pakistan has it that Zardari and Gilani have agreed to reshuffle gov and dissolve cabinet.

Vali Nasr